WATCHFUL
STARFISH

ire
sin

you will
crystallise,
dipped in
egg-white and
sugar

you will fold
a star;
vintage linen and
antique cream
paper

dust
&
longings

you
will unfurl
like a quince
blossom, careful flower.

will levitate
smoothly, your cup
of Earl Grey tea unspilled you will lick salt from the edge of a glass; crisp and silver-white

you will dance the dance of horn-rimmed spectacles and
bombazine

you will fly
with silver-gilled fish

you will
refract in frosted
glass

old paper
